IN MARCH

Teachers as Individuals: The stories of real teachers and their very real problems, as seen by the teachers themselves, the administrators, even by the students, make up the March issue. A look into the life of teachers reminds us that professional achievement is only one part of the teacher's living.

There are discussions of teachers' interests as normal, well-balanced human beings and of the adjustments they need to make in fitting into their jobs. How to work with individuals within a group is carefully analyzed.

The importance of knowing teachers is discussed from the viewpoint of a superintendent. An unusual approach to working with teachers is presented in an article on camping experiences as pre-service and in-service education.

Contributors include: Willard E. Goslin, Howard Y. McClusky, Edna Baxter, Wilbur D. West, Neva Caroline Hagaman, Ruth G. Strickland, Maurice E. Troyer, and P. B. Jacobson.

The departments bring news on the education front and reviews of current books. The Tools for Learning section deals with the need for better school equipment and supplies.
